

54 White Street, New York

Inaugural opening

Opening on March 16, 2021

GRIMM is pleased to announce its inaugural exhibition at 54 White Street in Tribeca, New York

An expansive group exhibition at 54 White Street will celebrate the gallery's program with exemplary new works by each represented artist.

Spanning two levels, GRIMM's new exhibition space has been conceived in close collaboration with gallery artists and WAU Architects with the aim of designing a flexible and continuously developing space in service of our artists' most ambitious projects.

54 White Street is the former home of Arc Records, the legendary record archive that once housed 3.5 million records. In the spirit of this cultural outpost, GRIMM's new contemporary gallery will accommodate a 4,200 square feet gallery on its ground floor and 1,800 square feet on its lower level.

A solo presentation of new paintings by Caroline Walker will follow the inaugural exhibition in March 2021.
